1 Plaintiffs/Counter-Defendants The Laryngeal Mask Company Ltd. and LMA North 2 America, Inc. (collectively “LMA”) respectfully move for summary judgment on the 3 counterclaims for false advertising under the Lanham Act and related state claims asserted by 4 defendants/counterclaimants Ambu A/S, Ambu Inc., and Ambu Ltd. (collectively “Ambu”).
5 Specifically, LMA moves on the ground that Ambu has neither presented a genuine issue of fact 6 on whether it has suffered or is likely to suffer injury as a result of the alleged false advertising, 7 nor presented a reasonable basis for the calculation of its purported damages.

8 I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

9 To establish a violation of § 43(a) of the Lanham Act, a plaintiff must prove that it has 10 suffered injury as a result of the false advertising as well as establish with reasonable certainty the 11 amount of that injury. Even if Ambu could identify a genuine issue of material fact on whether 12 LMA’s advertising was false or misleading (which it has not), LMA is entitled to summary 13 judgment because Ambu has failed to present sufficient evidence of injury and damages. Ambu 14 claims injury from LMA’s use of a brochure based on a study by Dr. David Z. Ferson concluding 15 that Ambu laryngeal masks pose a greater risk than LMA masks of nerve damage and gastric 16 insufflation, regurgitation, and aspiration. The sole injury Ambu claims to have suffered consists 17 of sales it purportedly lost (and LMA purportedly gained) as a result of the alleged false 18 advertising. Ambu has not, however, identified a specific sale that it actually lost as a result of the 19 alleged false advertising. Nor has Ambu identified a single Group Purchasing Organization 20 (“GPO”) contract lost as a result of LMA’s advertising – a particularly telling failure in light of 21 Ambu’s acknowledgement that the majority of laryngeal mask sellers’ revenues are derived from 22 only a few GPOs. [REDACTED]

Because Ambu has failed to proffer competent evidence to establish that LMA’s advertising caused Ambu to suffer injury, much less the amount of such injury, LMA is entitled to adjudication of Ambu’s Lanham Act and state law claims for monetary relief as a matter of law. Ambu’s claim for injunctive relief should similarly be denied because Ambu does not and cannot show that it is likely to be injured as a result of the use of the LMA Brochure, much less that it will suffer irreparable harm absent an injunction. If granted, this motion will result in dismissal of all of Ambu’s non-patent counterclaims, thereby eliminating a need for a trial of such claims.

II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The facts regarding the background of this case are set forth in detail in LMA’s Memorandum of Law in Support of its Motion for Summary Judgment on Ambu’s Counterclaims for Failure to Establish False or Misleading Advertising (“LMA’s False or Misleading SJ Memorandum”). The following sets forth the facts relevant to the issues of injury and damages.

5 F. More Than Three Years After LMA Circulates the LMA Brochure, Ambu
6 Brings Legal Action Against LMA

7 LMA commenced this patent-infringement action on October 15, 2007 (D.I. 1) and filed an 8 amended complaint on October 17, 2007 (D.I. 4). Ambu answered the complaint and filed two 9 counterclaims alleging invalidity and non-infringement of LMA's patents on December 5, 2007, 10 (D.I. 15) and on January 30, 2008, Ambu submitted an answer to the amended complaint, as well 11 as the same two counterclaims it had previously asserted (D.I. 39).

12 More than five months later, on July 11, 2008, Ambu filed a motion to amend its pleadings 13 and add five new counterclaims, namely, (1) false advertising in violation of 43(a) of the Lanham 14 Act; (2) false advertising in violation of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500, et seq. (3) trade libel in 15 violation of Cal. Civ. Code § 45; (4) international interference with prospective economic 16 relations; and (5) unfair competition pursuant to Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et. seq. (D.I. 63.)
17 Ambu's counterclaims allege that LMA falsely advertised, based on the Ferson Study, that Ambu 18 products pose a greater risk than LMA products of nerve damage. See id. ¶ 15. In addition, the 19 counterclaims allege that LMA "made false and misleading statements that several customers have 20 switched from purchasing LMA's laryngeal masks to Ambu's laryngeal masks only to switch back 21 to using LMA's products" as a result of "clinical and/or safety reasons." (D.I. 72 at ¶ 18.) Ambu 22 seeks injunctive relief, as well as lost profits, unjust enrichment measured by LMA's profits, and 23 the cost of corrective advertising. See id. ¶¶ 25-26, 30-32, 37-38, 45, 47, 52-53.

24 In support of its motion to add the counterclaims, Ambu claimed that it did not file sooner 25 because "Ambu was under the impression" that LMA had ceased the above marketing and sales 26 tactics, and that Ambu "only recently learned, on or about July 1, 2008, that LMA has resumed the 27 conduct described above." Order Granting Defendants' Motion for Leave to Amend (D.I. 71) 28 (quoting Declaration of Henrik Wendler, Ambu A/S EVP for R&D, Process Development,

1 Production and Logistics, dated July 11, 2008). Although this Court allowed Ambu to add the 2 counterclaims, it found as a fact that Ambu had engaged in “undue delay” in asserting them. Id.

3 III. ARGUMENT

4 Even if Ambu has presented a genuine factual issue regarding whether LMA’s advertising 5 is false or misleading (which it has not), LMA is entitled to summary judgment on Ambu’s 6 Lanham Act and state law claims because Ambu has failed to produce competent summary 7 judgment evidence that it suffered injury as a result of the advertising (as required for monetary 8 relief) or is likely to suffer future injury (as required for injunctive relief). What is more, Ambu 9 has provided no reasonable basis for the calculation of the amount of damages. Accordingly, LMA
10 is entitled to adjudication of Ambu’s Lanham Act and related state law claims based on LMA’s 11 alleged false advertising as a matter of law.³

12 A. Summary Judgment Standard

13 A motion for summary judgment shall be granted if the court determines “that there is no 14 genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter 15 of law.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c); see also Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 322 (1986). A 16 dispute about a material fact is genuine if “the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return 17 a verdict for the nonmoving party.” Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). A 18 party seeking summary judgment bears the initial burden of establishing the absence of a genuine 19 issue of material fact. Celotex, 477 U.S. at 323. The moving party can satisfy this burden in two 20 ways: (1) by presenting evidence to negate an essential element of the nonmoving party’s case; or 21 (2) by demonstrating that the nonmoving party failed to make a showing sufficient to establish an 22 element essential to that party’s case on which that party will bear the burden of proof at trial. Id.
23 at 322-23.

25 ³ In its counterclaims, Ambu also asserted that LMA has “made false and misleading statements that several 26 customers have switched from purchasing LMA’s laryngeal masks to Ambu’s laryngeal masks only to switch back to 27 using LMA’s products” as a result of “clinical and/or safety reasons.” (D.I. 72 at ¶ 18.) Even if Ambu has shown that 28 LMA made false or misleading statements in this regard and that such statements were material (which Ambu has not), Ambu’s claim fails for the same reasons as its claim based on the LMA Brochure: a failure to establish any injury resulting from LMA’s statements or proffer a reasonable calculation of the amount of such injury. Thus, Ambu cannot defeat summary judgment on the basis of this claim.

1 B. LMA Is Entitled to Summary Judgment on Ambu’s Lanham Act Claim for 2 Monetary Relief Because Ambu Has Failed to Present Sufficient Evidence that 3 It Suffered Injury as a Result of the Alleged False Advertising

4 The elements of a false advertising claim under § 43(a) of the Lanham Act, see 15 U.S.C. § 5 1125(a), are: (1) a false statement of fact by the defendant in a commercial advertisement about its 6 own or another’s product; (2) the statement actually deceived or has the tendency to deceive a 7 substantial segment of its audience; (3) the deception is material, in that it is likely to influence the 8 purchasing decision; (4) the defendant caused its false statement to enter interstate commerce; and 9 (5) the plaintiff has been or is likely to be injured as a result of the false statement, either by direct 10 diversion of sales from itself to defendant or by a lessening of the goodwill associated with its 11 products. Southland Sod Farms v. Stover Seed Co., 108 F.3d 1134, 1139 (9th Cir. 1997). For 12 proven violations, the Lanham Act provides that “the plaintiff shall be entitled . . . subject to the 13 principles of equity to recover (1) defendant’s profits, (2) any damages sustained by the plaintiff, 14 and (3) the costs of the action . . .” 15 U.S.C. § 1117(a). The Lanham Act gives courts the “power 15 to grant injunctions, according to the principles of equity and upon such terms as the court may 16 deem reasonable, to prevent the violation” of a registrant’s rights. 15 U.S.C. § 1116(a).

17 The standard for proving the fifth element, i.e., injury, is higher for an award of damages 18 than for injunctive relief. “Thus, a plaintiff seeking monetary rather than injunctive relief must 19 show ‘actual damages rather than a mere tendency to be damaged.’” Bracco Diagnostics, Inc. v.
20 Amersham Health, Inc., No. 03-6025, 2009 WL 1743699, at *68 (D.N.J. June 5, 2009) (citations 21 omitted). To obtain monetary relief, “[t]he plaintiff must link the deception with actual harm to its 22 business.” Id. at *68 (citations omitted). “[P]laintiff may not recover if he fails to prove that the 23 defendant’s actions caused the claimed harm.” Harper House, Inc. v. Thomas Nelson, Inc., 889 24 F.2d 197, 209 (9th Cir. 1989); see also Lindy Pen Co. v. Bic Pen Corp., 982 F.2d 1400, 1407 (9th 25 Cir. 1993) (“Damages are typically measured by any direct injury which a plaintiff can prove, as 26 well as any lost profits which the plaintiff would have earned but for the [violation].”) (emphasis 27 added); Hot Wax, Inc. v. Turtle Wax, Inc., 191 F.3d 813, 819-20 (7th Cir. 1999) (“to recover 28 money damages under the Act, a plaintiff must prove both actual damages and a causal link between defendant’s violation and those damages”); Rhone-Poulenc Rorer Pharm., Inc. v. Marion

1 Merrell Dow, Inc., 93 F.3d 511, 515 (8th Cir. 1996) (“Plaintiff must prove both actual damages
2 and a causal link between defendant’s violation and those damages.”); Seven-Up Co. v. Coca-Cola
3 Co., 86 F.3d 1379, 1387 n.12 (5th Cir. 1995) (“it is [] necessary that plaintiff demonstrate that 4 defendant’s illegal conduct was a substantial cause of injury to plaintiff’s business”) (citation 5 omitted); Peerless Heater Co. v. Mestek, Inc., No. CIV. A. 98-CV-6532, 2000 WL 637082, at *4 6 (E.D. Pa. May 11, 2000) (“To satisfy this causation requirement, the plaintiff must prove that the 7 defendants’ activities were a material cause of the injury.”). Proof of actual damages is compelled 8 by the Lanham Act itself, which provides that a monetary award “shall constitute compensation 9 and not a penalty.” 15 U.S.C. § 1117(a) (emphasis added).⁴

10 In addition to profits lost by the plaintiff, the Lanham Act permits under certain equitable 11 circumstances recovery of profits obtained by the defendant as a result of the false advertising. To 12 recover such profits, the plaintiff must establish (among other things) that “the defendant has 13 benefited from his false advertisements.” Tao of Sys. Integration, Inc. v. Analytical Servs. &
14 Materials, Inc., 330 F. Supp. 2d 668, 672 (E.D. Va. 2004); see also Logan, 263 F.3d at 465

15 ⁴ A number of cases have suggested that where the defendant deliberately deceived the public, plaintiff can rely on a 16 presumption that the defendant’s statements caused injury to the plaintiff. See, e.g., Harper House, 889 F.2d at 209 17 (approving the use of the presumption of deception once plaintiff establishes that defendant acted with intent to 18 deceive); Porous Media Corp. v. Pall Corp., 110 F.3d 1329, 1336 (8th Cir. 1997) (“in comparative advertising cases 19 where money damages are sought and where there exists proof of willful deception,” the plaintiff is entitled to a 20 rebuttable presumption of causation and harm); U-Haul Int’l, Inc. v. Jartran, Inc., 793 F.2d 1034, 1040 (9th Cir. 1986)
21 (approving a presumption of actual deception and reliance for deliberately false comparative claims); Southland Sod., 22 108 F.3d at 1146 (stating that “[p]ublication of deliberately false comparative claims gives rise to a presumption of 23 actual deception and reliance”); Bracco, 2009 WL 1743699, at *70 (plaintiff “must first establish willfulness before 24 entitlement to a presumption of causation and harm”). That presumption does not apply here because there is no 25 evidence that LMA acted willfully, i.e., with the actual intent to deceive customers. LMA’s advertising was based on a 26 study that was performed by a leading expert and published in a highly respected journal. Ambu offers no studies to 27 refute the Ferson Study and its own clinical evidence in fact supports it. Accordingly, there is no evidence that LMA 28 acted in bad faith or with the intent to deceive. See Bracco, 2009 WL 1743699, at *70-72 (defendant’s false advertising in connection with its claims of product superiority was not willful, where studies and knowledgeable and credible experts supported challenged claims and there were no studies that adequately and reliably demonstrated the converse of the claims); ALPO Petfoods, Inc. v. Ralston Purina Co., 913 F.2d 958, 968 (D.C. Cir. 1990) (“Ralston’s decision to run CHD-related advertising that lacked solid empirical support does not, without more, reflect willfulness or bad faith.”); cf. Golf Co. v. Slazenger, 384 F. Supp. 2d 735 742 (D. Del. 2005) (finding willful conduct when the defendant continued to disseminate ads with claims of superiority of its golf ball over all other competitor golf ball product lines on tour, when its own tests showed that a competitor’s golf ball product line on tour was superior). Even if such a presumption were appropriate here (and it is not), the evidence set forth infra, pp. 12-18, shows that Ambu did not lose sales as a result of the alleged false advertising, rebutting any presumption of causation and injury in this case. See Balance Dynamics Corp. v. Schmitt Indus., Inc., 204 F.3d 683, 694-95 (6th Cir. 2000) (presumption of causation and injury was rebutted by evidence demonstrating that the plaintiff’s “business was not harmed” as a result of the allegedly false representations, specifically, evidence that plaintiff’s sales increased after the period in which the false representations were disseminated, that there was no decrease in the price of its product, and that no customers had ever informed it that it was losing a sale due to the defendant’s communications).

1 (“[W]here a plaintiff who has brought a Lanham Act claim for false advertising has failed to 2 present evidence that the defendant benefited from the alleged false advertising, the plaintiff will 3 not be permitted to recover any of the defendant’s profits.”); Balance Dynamics Corp. v. Schmitt
4 Indus., Inc., 204 F.3d 683, 695 (6th Cir. 2000) (“[U]nless there is some proof that plaintiff lost 5 sales or profits, or that defendant gained them, the principles of equity do not warrant an award of 6 defendant’s profits.”). Thus, both “[t]he plaintiff’s injury or the defendant’s gain must be “a result 7 of [the defendant’s] misrepresentation.” Tao, 330 F. Supp. 2d at 672 (citation omitted). If the 8 plaintiff is unable to establish this “causal link” to the defendant’s actions, “the plaintiff has no 9 sustainable claim under the Lanham Act, and the defendant must be granted summary judgment.”
10 Id. at 672; see also Logan, 263 F.3d at 465 (affirming judgment as a matter of law for the 11 defendant because the plaintiff had failed to present evidence that the defendant’s profits were 12 attributable to the false advertising); Castrol Inc. v. Pennzoil Quaker State Co., 169 F. Supp. 2d 13 332, 343 (D.N.J. 2001) (“Surely, Castrol must demonstrate with reasonable certainty the portion 14 of Pennzoil’s profits attributable to the willful and intentional false advertising before the Court 15 can order disgorgement.”).

16 As explained below, Ambu has not proffered sufficient evidence to support the claim that 17 LMA’s alleged false advertising caused it to suffer injury. The sole injury alleged by Ambu 18 consists of sales allegedly lost as a result of the false advertising. Because Ambu fails to present 19 sufficient evidence that LMA statements regarding the Ferson Study caused Ambu to lose (or 20 LMA to gain) sales, LMA is entitled to summary judgment on Ambu’s claims for monetary relief 21 as a matter of law.

e. The Sales Trend Evidence Refutes Ambu’s Claims

Not only does Ambu fail to present evidence of any lost sale as a result of the alleged false advertising, it does not offer any sales trend evidence to support its claim of lost sales. In fact, the sales trend evidence supports the conclusion that the LMA Brochure did not cause Ambu to lose sales.

[REDACTED]

Accordingly, the sales trend evidence refutes Ambu’s claim of harm in this case. See Balance Dynamics Corp., 204 F.3d at 694-95 (evidence demonstrated that the plaintiff’s business was not harmed as a result of the allegedly false representations where the plaintiff’s sales increased after the period in which the false representations were disseminated and there was no decrease in the price of its product).

The sole “sales trend” on which Ambu relies is its claim that Ambu’s rate of market share growth declined in the years following dissemination of the LMA Brochure. But as explained in LMA’s Memorandum of Law in Support of Their Motion to Exclude the Testimony of Ryan

1 Sullivan P.h.D. (at 10-11), Ambu's calculation of its growth rate was arbitrary, statistically flawed, 2 and wholly speculative. [REDACTED]

3 [REDACTED] REDACTED [REDACTED]

4 [REDACTED]
5 [REDACTED] Blanton
6 Enters., Inc. v. Burger King Corp., 680 F. Supp. 753, 776 (D.S.C. 1988) (unsuccessful franchise
7 applicant had no damages recoverable on promissory estoppel theory and thus summary judgment 8 was proper where applicant's "own projections" indicated it would make more profit operating 9 competing franchise which it opened at proposed site).

10 Even if Ambu could show some adverse sales trend (which it cannot), a sales trend 11 approach would be improper here. "Although circumstantial evidence illustrating sales trends may 12 suffice in some cases, where 'many potential intervening factors can affect the plaintiff's sales, 13 and the presence of such factors bears on the sufficiency of the plaintiff's proof,' a sales trend 14 approach will be insufficient to demonstrate causation." Bracco, 2009 WL 1743699, at *73 (citing 15 Restatement (Third) of Unfair Competition § 36 comments h and i); see also Seven-Up, 86 F.3d at 16 1388-89 ("inferences of causation based solely on the chronology of events, where the record 17 contains undisputed testimony to the contrary or other equally credible theories of causation," are 18 not reasonable inferences). In this case, even if Ambu did experience a decline in its growth rate 19 after dissemination of the LMA Brochure (and there is no reliable evidence that it did), there are 20 simply too many other equally credible theories as to why purchasers bought from LMA rather 21 than Ambu to attribute any such decline to the LMA Brochure as opposed to other factors.

22 This conclusion is illustrated by the recent case of Bracco, supra. In that case, even though 23 the plaintiff had experienced a decline in sales of its medical product after the publication of the 24 false advertising, the court held that the plaintiff could not establish a causal link between its lost 25 sales and the false advertising where it was unable to identify a single specific customer that had 26 purchased from the defendant instead of the plaintiff as a result of the advertising and numerous 27 other factors could have accounted for the decline in sales. 2009 WL 1743699, at 74-75. The court 28 explained that the plaintiff "presented evidence, at best, showing certain false information was

1 presented to GPO members, but it fail[ed] to demonstrate the impact of that information on the 2 members, let alone that it was the substantial reason the contracts were awarded to [the 3 defendant].” Id. at 74. The court noted that it was likely that the bids and awards of contracts were 4 based on personal experience, feedback from physician colleagues, clinical information, and 5 existing strong positive relationship companies had with competitor. Id. at 74-75. Thus, the 6 plaintiff “failed to establish the threshold causation needed for an award of damages as there are 7 other factors present which account for Bracco’s lost profits and overshadow [the plaintiff’s] 8 actual false advertising.” Id.; see also id. at 75 n.263 (lost profits award not proper where plaintiff 9 “has not proffered sufficient evidence linking its sales decline to [the plaintiff’s] false 10 advertising”).

11 Similarly, here, the evidence is not sufficient to support Ambu’s claim for damages where 12 it has failed to identify any specific lost sales or link any purported decline in market growth to the 13 alleged false advertising. Accordingly, LMA is entitled to summary judgment on its claim for lost 14 profits, unjust enrichment, and corrective advertising as a matter of law. See IQ Products Co. v.
15 Pennzoil Prods. Co., 305 F.3d 368, 376 (5th Cir. 2002) (defendant was entitled to summary 16 judgment because plaintiff failed to “present[] . . . competent summary judgment evidence that 17 indicates that consumers would have bought IQ’s tire inflator products instead of Fix-A-Flat in the 18 absence of the defendants’ allegedly false and misleading statements”); Seven-Up, 86 F.3d at 19 1388-89 (evidence was not sufficient to support lost profits award where there was no direct 20 evidence that defendant’s false representations were a substantial factor in the decision for bottlers 21 to switch brands); Tao, 330 F. Supp. 2d at 674, 676 (summary judgment warranted where plaintiff 22 did not meet “its burden of producing evidence sufficient to establish a ‘causal link’ between [the 23 defendant’s false advertising] and any alleged harm to [the plaintiff], or benefit to [the 24 defendant]”; “[a]lthough plaintiff presents some evidence in support of its claim that [the 25 defendant] benefited from the alleged false advertising, that evidence is too speculative and 26 attenuated to create a triable issue of fact”).

1 C. LMA Is Entitled to Summary Judgment on Ambu’s Lanham Act Claim for 2 Injunctive Relief Because It has Failed To Present Sufficient Evidence that It
3 Is Likely to Suffer Future Injury as a Result of the Alleged False Advertising

4 As explained earlier, to establish a violation of § 43(a) of the Lanham Act, a plaintiff must 5 prove that it “has been or is likely to be injured as a result of the false statement.” Southland Sod 6 Farms, 108 F.3d at 1139. Although the standard for proving injury is higher when a plaintiff seeks 7 to obtain monetary relief, a plaintiff must still prove a likelihood of injury to obtain injunctive 8 relief. Additionally, “[i]n order to obtain permanent injunctive relief against future violations of 15 9 U.S.C. § 1125(a), a plaintiff must ‘demonstrate that a commercial advertisement or promotion is 10 either literally false or that the advertisement is likely to mislead and confuse consumers’ and ‘that 11 it will suffer irreparable harm if the injunction is not granted.’” Logan, 263 F.3d at 465 (emphasis 12 in original) (citing Seven-Up, 86 F.3d at 1390).

13 Here, even if the LMA Brochure is false or misleading, injunctive relief is not warranted 14 because Ambu has failed to proffer sufficient evidence of likely injury. Given Ambu’s failure to 15 show that it has suffered any actual injury as a result of the LMA Brochure despite years of the 16 Brochure’s use (to the contrary, Ambu’s overall sales have kept growing despite such use), Ambu 17 does not and cannot prove that it is likely to suffer injury from any continued use of the Brochure.
18 Indeed, any conclusion that Ambu is likely to suffer future injury from the Brochure is belied by 19 its failure to seek an injunction against the use of the Brochure for more than three years after it 20 became aware of its use. Although the LMA Brochure is still available for distribution, it was 21 printed in only one print run in 2005, it has not been reprinted since that time, only a small 22 inventory still exists, and it has been used infrequently in the past few years. What is more, LMA 23 is prepared to cease distribution of the few remaining copies of the LMA Brochure.

24 For all of these reasons, Ambu does not and cannot establish that the use of the LMA 25 Brochure is likely to cause it injury, much less that it will suffer irreparable harm if an injunction 26 is not granted. Accordingly, LMA is entitled to summary judgment on Ambu’s claim for 27 injunctive relief. See In re Circuit Breaker Litig., 860 F. Supp. 1453, 1456 (C.D. Cal. 1994) (“[I]f 28 “the defendant has infringed innocently, ceased before judgment and assured the court that it has no intention of infringing in the future, the public needs no protection. In these circumstances,

1 courts usually deny requests for permanent injunctions.”), aff’d, 106 F.3d 894 (9th Cir. 1997);
2 Logan, 263 F.3d at 465 (“In this case, Logan has failed to establish that it will suffer irreparable 3 harm absent injunctive relief. It points to no evidence that HoneyBaked continues to make 4 references to spiral sliced meat products in its advertising or that it will in the future. Accordingly, 5 we find that the district court did not err in denying injunctive relief.”); Seven-Up, 86 F.3d at 6 1389-90 (even though defendant’s advertising was false and misleading, court denied injunctive 7 relief where there was no evidence indicating that the plaintiff would suffer irreparable harm if an 8 injunction was not granted because the defendant had ceased the advertising in question).

9 D. Ambu Has Failed to Proffer a Reasonable Basis for the Calculation of 10 Monetary Relief

11 “A plaintiff must prove both the fact and the amount of damage.” See Lindy Pen, 982 F.2d 12 at 1407 (citing J. Thomas McCarthy, Trademarks and Unfair Competition § 30:27 (2d ed. 1984)).
13 Although damages in Lanham Act cases need not be calculated with “absolute exactness,” there 14 must be a reasonable basis for their calculation. Lindy Pen, 982 F.2d at 1407 (quoting Eastman 15 Kodak, 273 U.S. at 379). Specifically, the “court must ensure that the record adequately supports 16 all items of damages claimed and establishes a causal link between the damages and the 17 defendant’s conduct, lest the award become speculative or violate [Lanham Act] section 35(a)’s 18 prohibition against punishment.” ALPO Petfoods, Inc. v. Ralston Purina Co., 913 F.2d 958, 969 19 (D.C. Cir. 1990) (citations and footnote omitted). Thus, the amount of actual damages “awarded 20 must have support in the record.” Id.; see also Porous Media Corp. v. Pall Corp., 110 F.3d 1329, 21 1336 (8th Cir. 1997) (even where there is “[a] predicate finding of intentional deception” and 22 plaintiff is therefore entitled to “a rebuttable presumption of causation and injury in fact,” the 23 plaintiffs “still b[ears] the burden of proving an evidentiary basis to justify any monetary 24 recovery”) (emphasis added); Schonfeld v. Hilliard, 218 F.2d 164, 172 (2d Cir. 2000) (although 25 lost profits need not be proven with “mathematical precision,” they must be “capable of 26 measurement based upon known reliable factors without undue speculation” and projections of 27 future profits based upon “a multitude of assumptions” that require “speculation and conjecture” 28 and few known factors do not provide the requisite certainty) (citations omitted). Applying these principles,”[m]any courts have denied a monetary award in [Lanham Act] cases when damages are remote and speculative.” Lindy Pen, 982 F.2d at 1408 (citing cases).

In this case, Ambu seeks lost profit, unjust enrichment, and corrective advertising costs. Ambu relies entirely on the testimony of [REDACTED] [REDACTED] As explained in LMA’s Memorandum of Law in Support of the Motion to Exclude the Testimony of Ryan Sullivan, Ph.D. (at 5-6), Dr. Sullivan’s testimony as to the amount of lost profits, unjust enrichment, and corrective advertising is wholly speculative and unreliable and therefore should be precluded under the principles of Daubert and Federal Rule of Evidence 702.⁷

Exclusion of Dr. Sullivan’s testimony leaves Ambu without any proof of the amount of damages. Accordingly, even if Ambu has presented a triable issue of fact on whether it has suffered injury as a result of the alleged false advertising (which it has not), LMA is entitled to summary judgment on Ambu’s claims for monetary relief. City of Vernon v. S. Cal. Edison Co., 955 F.2d 1361, 1373 (9th Cir. 1992) (“[W]e agree with the district court that the serious flaws in the only damage study which could be proffered to the jury placed Vernon in the position of having no proper proof of damages at all. Thus, the district court did not err when it awarded summary judgment based upon this lack of evidence.”); McGlinchy v. Shell Co., 845 F.2d 802, 808 (9th Cir. 1988) (after excluding expert damages studies as unreliable, court held that summary judgment was proper because there was no “competent evidence from which a jury could fairly estimate damages”); Monolithic Power Sys. v. O2 Micro Int’l. Ltd., 476 F. Supp. 2d 1143, 1154-56 (N.D. Cal. 2007) (“Because O2 Micro’s damages case is based entirely upon Mr. Bratic’s report, Defendants argue that they are entitled to summary adjudication that O2 Micro has no evidence of damages . . . Defendants have not offered evidence from an economist or other expert, but they do point to flaws in Mr. Bratic’s report that, when combined, are serious enough to render it unreliable and inadmissible. As a result, O2 Micro has not met its burden of proving damages. The Court grants summary judgment in favor of Defendants that O2 Micro has presented no evidence of damages.”); Go Medical Indus. Pty, Ltd. v. Inmed Corp., 300 F. Supp. 2d 1297, 1317-18 (N.D. Ga. 2003) (“The only proof as to the amount of lost profits ... comes from the expert testimony of David A. Kennedy. This Court has already concluded that Kennedy’s report is unreliable, and under Daubert cannot serve as evidence of the amount of lost profits. Without the Kennedy opinion, Plaintiffs present no evidence sufficient to create a jury issue on lost profits.”); Martinez v. Rabbit Tanaka Corp. Ltd., No. 04-61504-CIV, 2006 WL 5100536 *15 (S.D. Fla. Jan. 6, 2006) (“The exclusion of [the expert’s] testimony, the only evidence offered to quantify the damages alleged, . . . necessitates the grant of summary judgment.”).⁸

E. LMA Is Entitled to Summary Judgment on Ambu’s State Law Claims

Ambu’s failure to establish injury and damages resulting from the alleged false advertising also compels summary judgment on Ambu’s four state law claims. First, Ambu cannot show that LMA’s advertising caused Ambu to suffer injury, as required to establish the common law tort of intentional interference with prospective economic relations and Trade Libel, Cal. Civ. Code § 45. See Della Penna v. Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc., 11 Cal. 4th 376, 385, 389 (1995) (interference with economic relations requires “interference resulting in injury” in the form of “damages to the plaintiff proximately caused by the acts of the defendant”); Barnes-Hind, Inc. v. Superior Court, 181 Cal. App. 3d 377, 381 (1986) (trade libel “connote[s] ‘an intentional disparagement of the quality of property, which results in pecuniary damage to plaintiff’”) (citation omitted). Likewise, Ambu cannot show that LMA’s advertising disrupted a likely expectant interest of Ambu, as required to establish intentional interference with economic relations. See Westside Ctr. Assocs. v. Safeway Stores 23, Inc., 42 Cal. App. 4th 507, 527 (1996); Youst v. Longo, 43 Cal. 3d 64, 71 (1987) . Similarly, Ambu fails to establish the element of special ⁸ Even if Ambu has proffered sufficient evidence to establish the amount of profits that LMA gained as a result of the alleged false advertising (which it has not), summary judgment would be warranted on its unjust enrichment claim because, as explained supra, pp. 10-11 n.4, it has failed to create a triable issue of fact on willfulness. See Contessa Food Prods., Inc. v. Lockpur Fish Processing Co., Nos. CV 98-8218 NM (SHx), 99-4783 NM (SHx), 2003 WL 25778704, at *7 n.9 (C.D. Cal. Jan. 29, 2003) (willfulness is required to obtain a defendant’s profits). An award would similarly be precluded by other equitable factors, including Ambu’s delay of more than three years in asserting its claims and its unclean hands in making false claims in its Counter-Brochure (see LMA False or Misleading SJ Memo. at 14-15). See Oyster Software, Inc. v. Forms Processing, Inc., No. C-00-0724 JCS, 2001 WL 1736382, at *7 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 6, 2001) (listing “plaintiff’s laches” and “plaintiff’s unclean hands” as equitable factors weighing against an award of the defendant’s profits).

1 damages required to support its trade libel claim under Cal. Civ. Code §§ 45, 45a, 48a(b). See 2 Nichols v. Great Am. Ins. Cos., 169 Cal. App. 3d 766, 773 (1985) (trade libel requires that “the 3 publication has played a material and substantial part inducing others not to deal” resulting in 4 “special damages” such as “loss of prospective contracts”) (quoting Erlich, 224 Cal. App. 2d at 5 73); see also Astro Music, Inc. v. Eastham, 564 F.2d 1236, 1238-39 (9th Cir. 1977) (special 6 damages not proven where claimant points only to a business decline but does not produce 7 evidence that the alleged libel and decline were “causally connected”). Because Ambu has not 8 shown the amount of profits, if any, LMA gained as a result of the alleged false advertising, Ambu 9 cannot recover under for false advertising in violation of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500, et seq.
10 and unfair competition in violation of Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et. seq., which permit 11 restitution, rather than damages. See Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§ 17203, 17535.

12 Ambu’s failure to present sufficient evidence of future injury similarly warrants summary 13 judgment on its state law claims for injunctive relief. See Colgan v. Leatherman Tool Group, 14 Inc., 135 Cal. App. 4th 663, 702 (2006) (“[I]n order to grant injunctive relief under section 17204
15 [unfair competition] or section 17535 [false advertising], there must be a threat that the wrongful 16 conduct will continue. ‘Injunctive relief will be denied if, at the time of the order of judgment, 17 there is no reasonable probability that the past acts complained of will recur, i.e., where the 18 defendant voluntarily discontinues the wrongful conduct.’”) (citations omitted); Paradise Hills 19 Assocs. v. Procel, 235 Cal. App. 3d 1528, 1546 (1991) (reversing preliminary injunction for 20 interference with prospective economic advantage based on rule that “[a]n injunction may issue 21 ‘against past acts only if there is evidence that they will probably recur’”).

22 Finally, LMA is also entitled to summary judgment on Ambu’s state law claims for 23 monetary relief because Ambu has failed to proffer a reasonably certain calculation of the amount 24 of its damages. See Kids’ Universe v. In2Labs, 95 Cal. App. 4th 870, 883 (2002) (“‘damages for 25 the loss of prospective profits are recoverable where the evidence makes reasonably certain their 26 occurrence and extent’”) (citation omitted); Piscitelli v. Friedenber, 87 Cal. App. 4th 953, 989 27 (2001) (“it is fundamental that ‘damages which are speculative, remote, imaginary, contingent, or 28 merely possible cannot serve as a legal basis for recovery’”) (citations omitted).

1 IV. CONCLUSION

2 For the reasons set forth above, LMA respectfully requests that this Court grant summary 3 judgment in favor of LMA for failure to establish injury and entitlement to monetary and 4 injunctive relief in connection with its counterclaims for false advertising under the Lanham Act 5 and related state law counterclaims.

6 Respectfully submitted,
